Key

- 1st read- evidence of why the house would be fun for kids

- 2nd read- evidence of why the house would be good or bad if you wanted to buy it

- 3rd read- evidence of what would be important to know if you wanted to ROB this house!

The two boys ran until they came to the driveway. “See, I told you today was good for skipping school,” said Mark. “Mom is never home on Thursday,” He added. Tall hedges hid the house from the road so the pair strolled across the finely landscaped yard. “I never knew your place was so big,” said Pete. “Yeah, but it’s nicer now than it used to be since Dad had the new stone siding put on and added the fireplace.”

There were front and back doors and a side door that led to the garage, which was empty except for three parked 10-speed bikes. They went in the side door, Mark explaining that it was always open in case his younger sisters got home earlier than their mother.

Pete wanted to see the house so Mark started with the living room. It, like the rest of the downstairs, was newly painted. Mark turned on the stereo, the noise of which worried Pete. “Don’t worry, the nearest house is a quarter mile away,” Mark shouted. Pete felt more comfortable observing that no houses could be seen in any direction beyond the huge yard.

The dining room, with all the china, silver, and cut glass, was no place to play so the boys moved into the kitchen where they made sandwiches. Mark said they wouldn’t go to the basement because it had been damp and musty ever since the new plumbing had been installed.

“This is where my Dad keeps his famous paintings and his coin collection,” Mark said as they peered into the den. Mark bragged that he could get spending money whenever he needed it since he’d discovered that his Dad kept a lot in the desk drawer.

There were three upstairs bedrooms. Mark showed Pete his mother’s closet that was filled with furs and the locked box that held her jewels. His sisters' room was uninteresting except for the color TV that Mark carried to his room. Mark bragged that the bathroom in the hall was his since one had been added to his sisters' room for their use. The big highlight in his room, though, was a leak in the ceiling where the old roof had finally rotted.

Our goal today is to practice incorporating evidence using the ACE model, where we answer/ state, cite, and explain our evidence.

Citing Evidence

- When writing or speaking about a piece of text, it is expected that we use evidence, or EXAMPLES to back up our claims.
- We cannot just drop our evidence in there, because it doesn't make sense to most people, especially if THEY HAVE NOT READ THE TEXT.
- So, we use the ACE model.

A C E In the story, "The Boy Who Cried Wolf," the boy's sheep are endangered, and none from the village wants to help him. What could he have done differently to save his sheep?

(2)
A In the story "TBWCW" the boy's sheep are endangered, & no one comes to help him. To save his sheep, he should have been honest from the start.

(1-2)
C According to the text, when the boy called for help, "the men, thinking the boy was tricking them again."

E If the boy had been honest in the first place, the men would not have felt tricked, & would have come to his rescue.

Conclude: Honesty is truly the best policy

A C E

Some ways to cite text

According to the author, "....."

Handwritten green scribbles, including a large 'X' and a blue asterisk.

On page X, it says, "....."

Vertical green scribbles.

The author states, "....."

Handwritten green word "choose" followed by the number "3".

For example, "....."

Handwritten green scribbles, including a large '3' and a wavy line.

As said by the character, "....."

In the story, "The House," the home might be unsafe for small children because there are many expensive and fragile heirlooms. According to the text, "the dining room, with all the china, silver and cut glass, was no place to play..." Fancy heirlooms are not for playing with, and if they break, they can hurt someone.
